ROOSEVELT IN HOOVER STATE

Democrat Seeks Support of Hiram Johnson, Republican's Critic.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 23.—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's campaign for the presidency was directed into a definitely new channel today, as the Democratic nominee boldly and pointedly made a bid for the Progressive-Republican vote of the great West.

It was the Progressive vote of the West that elected Woodrow Wilson in 1916—California did it—and Gov. Roosevelt plainly has decided to make his appeal to the independent vote this year.

Here in Mr. Hoover's home state, where political discontent is as rampant as in other sections of the country, Gov. Roosevelt is making literally a spectacular bid for the support of such Independent-Progressives as regularly reject Hiram Johnson to the Senate.

FAIRFIELD-CO BAR CENSORED

Judge Acton to Inquire Into Several Reports Reaching His Ears.

The Fairfield-co Bar Association is due for a "panning" Saturday when Judge Frank M. Acton of common pleas court, inquires into complaints of several members of the bar and a number of private citizens that certain unethical practices and irregularities in the county courts have been prevalent recently. The meeting is scheduled to begin at 9 a. m. Saturday.

Among the irregularities alleged to have been practiced, according to the Lancaster Eagle, is that of collection agency managers acting in a legal capacity in collecting accounts on a commission basis. Excessive court fees enter these cases of garnishee and executions, the costs in a number of cases being greater than the amount sought.

Other alleged practices beyond the pale of court ethics and fundamental legal practice are "to be considered in the investigation. It will be recalled that the Franklin-co Bar Association made a similar investigation some months ago and the disclosures were enough to stir the Franklin-co bench to immediate action.

BANKERS CHOSEN

Ayres Reports Upturn in Ohio Business

By International News Service The promise that millions of dollars soon will be ready for distribution by the new Cincinnati Federal Home Loan bank and the Columbus branch of the Agricultural Credit Corporation filled Ohio with a hope of immediate business improvements today.

The Cincinnati bank with a minimum capital of $15,000,000 will open its doors on Oct. 15 and begin the distribution of federal relief to Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee. Eleven directors named yesterday are to meet at once to start preliminary activities. The bank will assist home building activities.

Farmers in need of money for planning next year's work will be granted several million in cash for the purchase of livestock, feed and machinery by the regional agricultural credit corporation which will begin functioning within two weeks.

AYRES CONFIDENT Sounding a further optimistic note, Colonel Leonard Ayres of Cleveland, noted economic advisor of the fourth district federal reserve bank at Cleveland, declared confidently that "we are starting on the upside" and added that "the best evidence that the corner is being turned is the fall increases now being reported in many kinds of business."

Simultaneously Dr. Spurgeon Bell, director of the bureau of business research at Ohio State university, reported several "constructive developments" through a higher and firmer stock market condition and reestablishment of foreign confidence in the United States.

Franklin W. Fort, President Hoover's choice as chairman of the Federal home loan board, is expected to lose no time in notifying Harry S. Kinsell, the Springfield banker who has been informally selected as chairman of the Cincinnati bank, of a meeting in Washington for the purpose of beginning preliminary work.

BRANCHES POSSIBLE The question of establishing branches in Cleveland and Louisville will be brought up at the first meeting.

MISS WHITE AGAIN AIDS DAD'S CAUSE

Speaks at Lancaster and Plans Other Addresses Throughout Ohio.

Miss Mary White, daughter of Governor George White, today was started on a series of major campaign speeches in which she will urge the Democratic women of Ohio to organize to win votes for her father and the entire Democratic ticket.

After trying her hand at stumping by a few informal declarations at a meeting here several weeks ago, Miss White delivered a full-campaign speech to Democratic women of Fairfield-co Thursday night. She said she plans to speak in many places in Ohio.

After showering personal praise upon the governor, Miss White early in her speech said "I shall waive further discussion of father as the amiable, wholesome, sincere and human man I know him to be," and then launched into a five-minute discussion of his record. She also lauded other Democratic candidates.

Historical Relics Found In D. A. R.'s Loan Exhibit

It is almost impossible to believe that relics of historical interest are so plentiful in Pickaway-co, but a visit to the loan exhibit of the Daughters of the American Revolution which is being held in the Bales building, E. RED CROSS TO FACE DEMANDS

Membership Drive To Begin Armistice Day and End On Thanksgiving.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—The American Red Cross is facing the greatest demand for relief services since the World War, the central committee declared today prior to opening a drive for increased membership.

At a special meeting of the committee, Chairman John Barton Payne reported the Red Cross had given relief to 15,000,000 persons during the past year. At present the relief agency is engaged in distribution of 43,000,000 bushels of farm board wheat and 500,000 bales of cotton voted by Congress for direct relief to the needy.

The annual drive for contributions will begin Armistice Day and continue until Thanksgiving Day. The committee hoped to surpass last year's enrollment figure of 4,000,000 members.

OUTBREAK FEARED IN ATHENS-CO MINE AREA AS GUARD IS WOUNDED

Report Seekers Of Referendum Changing Minds

Members of Calcar Products Corp. Visit Residents Through City

OUTCOME AWAITED

Bucyrus Seeks Money for Sewage Plant

A number of persons who signed petitions seeking a referendum on a bond issue of $25,000 for purchase by the city of the sewage disposal plant on the Scioto river, the property of the Calcar Products Corp., have asked that their names be stricken from the petition, it was learned Friday.

Representatives of the Calcar Corp., have obtained a list of names of persons who signed the petition and have been interviewing them, it is understood. As a result, a number have changed their minds about the project and have signed their names to petitions to be given Miss Lillian Young, city auditor, ordering that their names be crossed off.

MAY BE LOST

When filled there were 380 names on the three petitions circulated in the city while only 287 were needed—10 per cent of the number of votes cast at the last city election. The result of the effort of members of the Calcar Corp. may mean that the petitions will not have enough names to permit admittance to the ballot for the November election.

In case the number of names left on the petitions after the requested names have been stricken off does not reach the 287 mark it is understood it will be necessary for the city auditor to inform the three youths, H. Scott Eagleson, Vattier and John Courtwright, who filed the petitions for referendum, that the number of names is insufficient and the petitions must be stricken out.

What action is left for them is not known. City council has approved a bond issue for $25,000 for the purchase of the plant.

SEEK $254,000

Another Ohio city, Bucyrus, certified to the board of elections necessary legislation for the presentation to the voters Nov. 8 of a $254,000 bond issue for a sewage disposal plant in that city, of 10,027 inhabitants, a project ordered five years ago by the board of health. The issue, if passed, would add taxes of $1.25 to each thousand-dollar property valuation.

DENY PETITION

A petition asking for the straightening, widening, deepening, cleaning and tiling of the Clark's Run ditch in Monroe-twp. filed by Mr. Kathryn Lucas, was dismissed by the county commissioners in a special meeting Thursday.

The county dads in disposing of the matter declared that the improvement was not necessary since the county had already ordered the construction of a new ditch which will grant the same relief sought by the petitioner, Mrs. Lucas.

The petition was filed May 31, and the commissioners viewed the site July 6. Mr. and Mrs. Lucas, E. D. Blaine and C. A. Weldon and Charles May, attorneys, attended the meeting.

REID IS JAILED FOR NON-SUPPORT

Amrose Redd, Columbus formerly of Commercial Point, was taken into custody, after attending a dance at South Bloomfield Thursday evening and brought to the county jail on a charge of non-support filed by his wife.

He pleaded guilty before Judge J. S. Jones of Ashtabula and arranged to pay for the support of his wife and children.

Redd was arrested on a charge filed by his wife, Mrs. Ivy Redd.

CANCER TAKES MAN, 62, HERE

John S. McCollister Dies At Home After Illness of Two Years.

Cancer after an illness of two years caused the death of John Seymour McCollister, aged 62, at his home, 137 E. Mill-st., at 4:30 p. m. Thursday.

Mr. McCollister was a native of Williamsport and was born Oct. 10, 1869 a son of Abner and Sally McKinney McCollister. He was a blacksmith by trade and was a resident of Pickaway-co his entire life.

He was twice married, first to Mary Ambrose who succumbed in 1908 and second to Margaret Brewer in 1921.

Surviving are the following children, all of the first marriage: Ray of Wellston; Mrs. Edna Spindler, this city; Mrs. Bonnie Frazier of Lancaster and Thomas McCollister of this city. His widow, several nieces and nephews and five grand children, also survive.

Funeral services will be Saturday at the home at 3 p. m. with Rev. M. E. White of Chillicothe officiating. Burial will be in West cemetery by Mayer & Ebert.

Probability that the Brimstone road, extending southward from Adelphi through Ross and Hockingcos, a highway that runs thru one of the most picturesque and scenic sections of Ohio in the area of the Ross, Hocking, Old Mans, Cave and Ashland may be made part of the state highway system was expressed Friday.

This work a party comprising the county commissioners of Ross and Hocking and county surveyors and representatives of the state highway department made a trip over the road the purpose being to convince the highway department that the road should be made a part of the state system.

Snipers, Hiding on Hill Injure Man Guarding Collieries Co.

PICKETS ARE IRATE

Telephone Wires Cut by Striking Men

ATHENS, Sept. 23.—Snipers shot and critically injured Floyd Hagendorf, 40-year-old mine guard in a new outbreak today at the No. 267 mine of the Ohio Collieries Co., which has refused to accept Governor George White's plan for ending the seven-months coal strike.

Believed to be in retaliation against the coal company for its refusal to give jobs to men who went on strike, snipers opened fire early today on company guards and also cut telephone wires leading from the mine, according to snipers' deputies.

Hagendorf was shot in the head and feet by rifle bullets while he and Albert Bolin, chief guard at the mine, were rushing to Glouster by automobile to summon help. He was also struck by buckshot. Brought to an Athens hospital, he was found to be in a serious condition.

Pickets, shouting out threats, picked about the road at the mine, located at Hinton, when snipers "imported" from Belmont county went to work.

Ohio National Guard officers at Nelsonville, who withdrew their official observers at the mine when the company refused to accept the governor's program, declined to send militiamen in response to calls for help during the shooting today, but Sheriff Wayne Wiegert dispatched two deputies.

When the shooting first broke out, Chief Mine Guard Bolin, who called for help over the mine phones, learned that telephone wires had been cut during the night. He and Hagendorf leaped in an automobile and started to Glouster. Hagendorf was shot as he sat at the wheel.

HID IN HILLS The shots were fired from rifles concealed in neighboring hillsides, Bolin said. Other mine guards returned the fire.

Adjutant General Frank D. Henderson visited the Crooksville coal field yesterday and made temporary terms for returning men to work at the No. 52 mine of the New York Coal Co., which also had refused to accept the governor's settlement plan.

Operators refused to pay the wage scale set by the governor in the 10-point peace plan. General Henderson stated he believed the differences will be settled at the Crooksville mine.

TAYLORSVILLE Ill., Sept. 23.—Peabody Mine No. 9 at Lanelev, idle since Aug. 19 when miners persuaded miners in the Midwest area to suspend work, resumed operations today under the $5. a day wage scale recently signed by the United Mine Workers and the Illinois Coal Operators' association. About 247 men went down.

Two infantry units and a machine gun troop of the Illinois National Guard "stood by" to prevent any disorder. Two machine guns were mounted across the road from the mine entrance ready for any emergency.

After the miners entered the shaft, most of the highway police were withdrawn and ordered to patrol the roads leading to the mine.

JURY DISCARDED

CLEVELAND, Sept. 23.—With plans for a jury trial discarded in favor of a triumvirate of judges, the hearing of Maurice Maske, Republican leader, and five others charged with embezzlement, was in adjournment today while efforts were made to find two other jurors who will preside with Judge John P. Dempsey at the trial starting Monday after four fruitless days in trying to select a jury for the hearing. Defense counsel started the plan of Judge Dempsey's court from late yesterday by announcing that they would waive trial by jury.

GRANGE GIVES $10

People Show Reverence
Held for Old Tree

With the Logan Elm fund rapidly nearing its goal of $900, another contribution from one of Pickaway-twp's organizations was received at The Herald office Friday morning. The Logan Elm Grange, named after the famous tree, unanimously voted $10 for the fund at its meeting Thursday evening.

The check, signed by Charles C. Waple, treasurer, was delivered Friday morning by Lester E. Seitz, Pickaway-twp superintendent of schools.

The fund had passed the $800 mark late Thursday and by Saturday morning was expected to go over the top. The fund is being centered at the Ohio State Journal office, Columbus, and will be presented to the Ohio Historical society to be used in rehabilitating the tree, said to be the oldest east of the Rocky Mountains.

SHOW CIVIC PRIDE
Much interest has been shown in the project of The Herald, the Journal and the Chillicothe Scioto Gazette, but Pickaway-twp, the home of the giant elm, has shown true civic pride in supporting the effort to raise the fund. The first observance of interest there came when Lester E. Seitz announced that a collection of pennies and nickels would be taken up in the centralized school, the money to be turned over to the fund. Many children carried their pennies and some their nickels and dimes to the school proud to help rebuild the Logan Elm of which they had heard from the time they were babies. The amount obtained was $7.50.

The second boost for the fund was received in the amount of $5 when the Ebenezer Social circle of Pickaway-twp, voted $5 be contributed. This money, taken from the circle's treasury, was sent with a note that the organization wished it could give much more to the fund. This club has been in existence for 23 years being formed as the Ebenezer Ladies Aid before the Ebenezer church was abandoned 10 years ago. The club then changed its name to Social Circle and purchased the old church which it still retains. Officers of the circle are Mrs. C. O. Kerns, president; Mrs. Orin Dreisbach, vice president; Mrs. George Jury, secretary, and Mrs. Marvin Dreisbach, treasurer.

"TO BE PROUD OF"
One of the officials of the circle declared Friday "The Logan Elm is something to be proud of. We in Pickaway-twp realize its importance to us and are glad to support it."

RED CROSS TO FACE DEMANDS

Membership Drive To Begin
Armistice Day and End On Thanksgiving.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—The American Red Cross is facing the greatest demand for relief services since the World War, the central committee declared today prior to opening a drive for increased membership.

At a special meeting of the committee, Chairman John Barton Payne reported the Red Cross had given relief to 15,000,000 persons during the past year. At present the relief agency is engaged in distribution of 43,000,000 bushels of farm board wheat and 500,000 bales of cotton voted by Congress for direct relief to the needy.

The annual drive for contributions will begin Armistice Day and continue until Thanksgiving Day. The committee hoped to surpass last year's enrollment figure of 4,000,000 members.

NEGRO EXECUTED

CHESTER, Ill., Sept. 23.—James Smith, 21-year-old East St. Louis negro, was executed at the southern Illinois penitentiary here early today. The negro pleaded guilty to shooting to death Thomas Bogosian, East St. Louis confectioner, in a robbery last November 31.

REID IS JAILED FOR NON-SUPPORT

Ambrose Reid, Columbus, formerly of Commercial Point, was taken into custody while attending a dance at South Bloomfield Thursday evening and brought to the county jail on a charge of non-support filed by his wife.

He pleaded guilty before Squire J. S. Hoover of Ashville and arranged to pay for the support of his wife and children.

REDD FINED $10

Andrew Redd of Walnut-twp, arrested for intoxication by Deputy Sheriff Bob Armstrong at his home Wednesday, was fined $10 and cost and remanded to the county jail until fine and costs are paid, by Mayor B. T. Hedges Thursday.

Redd was arrested on a charge filed by his wife, Mrs. Ivy Redd.

OUTCOME AWAITED

Bucyrus Seeks Money for Sewage Plant

A number of persons who signed petitions seeking a referendum on a bond issue of $25,000 for purchase by the city of the sewage disposal plant on the Scioto river, the property of the Calcar Products Corp., have asked that their names be stricken from the petition, it was learned Friday.

Representatives of the Calcar Corp., have obtained a list of names of persons who signed the petition and have been interviewing them, it is understood. As a result, a number have changed their minds about the project and have signed their names to petitions to be given Miss Lillian Young, city auditor, ordering that their names be crossed off.

MAY BE LOST

When filed there were 360 names on the three petitions circulated in the city while only 287 were needed-10 per cent of the number of votes cast at the last city election. The result of the effort of members of the Calcar Corp. may mean that the petitions will not have enough names to permit admittance to the ballot for the November election.

In case the number of names left on the petitions after the requested names have been stricken off does not reach the 287 mark it is understood it will be necessary for the city auditor to inform the three youths, H. Scott Eagleson, Vattier and John Courtwright, who filed the petitions for referendum, that the number of names is insufficient and the petitions must be stricken out.

What action is left for them is not known.

City council has approved a bond issue for $25,000 for the purchase of the plant.

SEEK $254,000

Another Ohio city, Bucyrus, certified to the board of elections necessary legislation for the presentation to the voters Nov. 8 of a $254,000 bond issue for a sewage disposal plant in that city, of 10,027 inhabitants, a project ordered five years ago by the board of health. The issue, if passed, would add taxes of $1.25 to each thousand-dollar property valuation.

DENY PETITION

A petition asking for the straightening, widening, deepening, cleaning and tiling of the Clark's Run ditch in Monroe-twp, filed by Mrs. Kathryn Lucas, was dismissed by the county commissioners in a special meeting Thursday.

The county dads in disposing of the matter declared that the improvement was not necessary since the courts have already ordered the construction of a new ditch which will grant the same relief sought by the petitioner, Mrs. Lucas.

The petition was filed May 31, and the commissioners viewed the site July 6.

Mr. and Mrs. Lucas, E. D. Blaine and C. A. Weldon and Charles May, attorneys, attended the meeting.

REQUEST STATE TO TAKE SCENIC ROAD

Probability that the Brimstone road, extending southward from Adelphi through Ross and Hocking-co's, a highway that runs through one of the most picturesque and scenic sections of Ohio in the area of the Rock House, Old Man's Cave and Ash Cave, may be made part of the state highway system, was expressed Friday.

This week a party comprising the county commissioners of Ross and Hocking-co's, county surveyors and representatives of the state highway department made a trip over the road, the purpose being to convince the highway department that the road should be made a part of the state system.

CANCER TAKES MAN, 62, HERE

John S. McCollister Dies At Home After Illness of Two Years.

Cancer after an illness of two years caused the death of John Seymour McCollister, aged 62, at his home, 137 E. Mill-st, at 4:30 p. m. Thursday.

Mr. McCollister was a native of Williamsport and was born Oct. 10, 1869 a son of Abner and Sally McKinney McCollister. He was a blacksmith by trade and was a resident of Pickaway-co his entire life.

He was twice married, first to Mary Ambrose who succumbed in 1908 and second to Margaret Brewer in 1921.

Surviving are the following children, all of the first marriage: Ray of Wellston; Mrs. Edna Spindler, and Miss Pearl McCollister, this city; Mrs. Bonnie Frazier of Lancaster and Thomas McCollister of this city. His widow, several nieces and nephews and five grand children, also survive.

Funeral services will be Saturday at the home at 3 p. m. with Rev. M. R. White of Chillicothe officiating. Burial will be in Forest cemetery by Mader & Ebert.

Louis, Josef Louis, Herschel Hulett, Charles Radcliff, Miller Fissell, Leona Henn, A. C. Cook, Walker Baughman, H. O. Eveland, Fred Fissell, and William F. McCrady.

The jury will be convened thru Friday and will probably be dismissed until Monday at 9 a. m. when it will resume deliberations.

PONY TRAMPS BOY

Harold Dowden, 12, Loses
Five Teeth When Animal
Scares and Runs.

Harold Dowden, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Dowden, Wayne-twp, lost five upper teeth and suffered numerous bruises at about 5 p. m. Wednesday when a pony became frightened and ran off with the boy. Young Dowden was thrown to the ground and it is thought the animal tramped on his mouth breaking off the teeth.

The boy is a fourth grade pupil at the Wayne-twp school.

JURY DISCARDED

CLEVELAND, Sept. 23.—With plans for a jury trial discarded in favor of a triumvirate of judges, the hearing of Maurice Maseke, a Republican leader, and five others charged with embezzlement, was in adjournment today while efforts were made to find two other judges who will preside with Judge John P. Dempsey at the trial starting Monday.

After four fruitless days in trying to select a jury for the hearing, defense counsel startled the placid clam of Judge Dempsey's courtroom late yesterday by announcing that they would waive trial by jury.

NEW DISCOVERIES CONFIRM VIRTUES OF BRAN IN DIET

Supplies "Bulk" and Vitamin B for Constipation; Also Iron for Blood

For ten years, now, millions have found Kellogg's ALL-BRAN a safe, pleasant way to overcome common constipation—with the headaches, loss of appetite and energy that so often result from this condition.

Recent laboratory tests show that ALL-BRAN supplies "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract. In addition, ALL-BRAN contains twice as much blood-building iron, by weight, as beef liver.

This "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like the "bulk" in lettuce. Inside the body, it absorbs moisture and forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

Special cooking processes make ALL-BRAN finer, softer, more palatable. It is not habit-forming.

Think how much better it is to enjoy this delicious cereal than to take endless pills and drugs, which often lead to harmful habits.

Two tablespoonfuls daily—in serious cases with every meal—are usually sufficient. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Serve ALL-BRAN as a cereal with milk or cream, or use in cooking. Appetizing recipes on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Eggs (especially for children).
Lean meat, fish, or poultry or cheese.

THE SCHOOL DAY LUNCH

Returning school-days bring back the problem of the school-day lunch. School cafeterias lessen the problem for some mothers but most children must carry lunch to school or come home to eat it. What, then, shall they have for lunch?

Growing children, food specialists say, have special needs in the way of food. Even when they eat all their meals at home, it is no easy matter to see that they are properly fed, and when they eat part of their meals at school, the difficulty is far greater. This, the bureau points out, is not because healthfulness and cleanliness are more important in this meal than in any other, but because they are harder to secure. It is not easy to keep food clean and attractive when it must be packed and carried to school.

Unfortunately, too, most of the foods that children need for the development of strong healthy bodies cost more than some of the foods that are more filling. Many families can not afford unlimited quantities of milk, eggs, butter, fruits, and vegetables. Cereals and sugar are cheaper, they furnish more body fuel, and are more filling. So these carbohydrate foods are relied on to a great extent, often to a much greater extent than is healthful. In fact, in the light of present knowledge of the requirements of the human body in childhood, one of the worst diets that could be devised would be made up chiefly of bread and sweets.

It is feasible, however, the bureau says, to keep down the cost of the diet by getting a large part of the necessary fuel from those cheapest sources, provided proper quantities of other necessary foods are supplied first; that is, if each child has each day a pint and a half or a quart of milk, at least a serving of tomato, or orange, a green-colored vegetable, and an ounce of butter.

At many schools where no lunches are served, the children can get milk. In such cases, the rest of the lunch is less of a prob-

Offers to Give Away Children

Driven desperate by years of privation and marital unhappiness, Mrs. Florence Serena of Vandergrift, Pa., has offered to give her triplets and young baby (the youngest of seven children) to anyone who will provide them with a good home. The frantic mother fears that she will be forced to watch her children starve to death if there is no response to her appeal. The triplets are, left to right, John, Eleanor and Harry. The child in her arms is Elmer.

If the child can not get milk at school, and can not carry it to school, then more is necessary to balance his daily diet. A cheese sandwich—cottage cheese, cream, or American cheddar—with plenty of butter, will help to meet the child's requirements for calcium and vitamin A otherwise supplied by milk. A fresh tomato, an orange, or other fruit—always desirable—are the more important if the child must do without milk at lunch.

With waxed paper, paper napkins, paper cups, plates and covered containers, nowadays so cheap, the paper bag has largely taken the place of the school lunch box or lunch basket. This makes for cleanliness and convenience in packing the lunch.

In hot weather, the use of soft, moist foods should be avoided. Although chopped meat moistened with dressing of some kind makes a good sandwich filling, such foods are less desirable in hot weather than slices of meat, peanut butter, cheese, or other foods, which are not so likely to spoil.

For lunch to be carried to school the following suggestions are offered:

SUGGESTED LUNCHES TO CARRY TO SCHOOL

1. Sandwiches with scrambled egg filling and lettuce. A firm tomato. Cookies. Milk.
2. Chopped cold cooked meat sandwiches, filling moistened with chili sauce, lettuce leaf. Apple or grapes. Milk.
3. Sandwiches filled with cottage cheese, salted and mixed with any of these: Chow chow, chili sauce, chopped dill pickle, green pepper, celery, parsley, onion, or other salad vegetable, chopped nuts. Cup cake. Milk.

4. Peanut butter sandwiches—ground shelled roasted peanuts moistened with cream or top milk—on whole wheat bread. Raw crisp cucumber sticks or celery. Cup custard or rice pudding. Milk.

5. Sandwiches of dried beef "fizzled" in butter, with crisp lettuce, cream or chopped parsley. Banana or dried fruit. Milk.

6. Baked bean sandwiches on brown bread, the beans moistened with chili sauce or catsup and mashed to a smooth paste. Raw carrot sticks, raisins. Milk.

For school day lunches at home, here are some suggestions:

1. Baked potato and bacon. Fresh tomato and lettuce. Bread and butter. Muskmelon.
2. Milk-vegetable soup. Scalloped cabbage and apples. Buttered toast. Milk. Raisin cup cake.
3. Brown rice. Buttered kale. Milk. Stewed dried apricots. Oatmeal cookie.

4. Sieved Lima beans with bacon. Baked tomato. Bread and butter. Milk. Apple brown betty or apple sauce.

5. Creamed fish with vegetables. Buttered toast. Milk. Peach or apple tapioca.

6. Scrambled eggs. Panned cabbage. Toast. Milk. Fruit gelatin.

RECIPES

Boston Brown Bread
1 cup corn meal and 1 cup rye meal, or 2 cups corn meal.
1 cup Graham flour;
1 teaspoon salt,
3-4 cup molasses;
2 cups sour milk, and 1 1-2 teaspoons soda, or 2 cups sweet milk, 1-4 teaspoon soda, and 4 teaspoons baking powder;

Mix the dry ingredient and add the molasses and the milk. Beat the mixture thoroughly, and pour into greased molds until they are about three-fourths full. Cover loosely to keep out the moisture, and steam for 3 1-2 hours. Remove the covers and bake the bread in a moderate oven for about 10 minutes to dry it off. If the bread seems likely to crumble, loop a string around the loaf and cut shoes by pulling the ends of the string.

Beef Loaf
2 pounds lean beef;
1 cup diced salt pork (about 1-2 pound);
4 tablespoons flour;
1 1-2 cups milk,
1 cup chopped parsley;
1-4 cup chopped onion;
1 cup fine, dry bread crumbs;

YOUNG LEADERS STUDY PROBLEMS

Youth everywhere is seeking the truth about the economic problem. They are asking why there is so much unemployment, poverty, hunger, idleness? Why is there an abundance of wheat, meat and shoes while many people are in dire need? Why are so many people losing their farms and homes through foreclosure?

2 teaspoons salt;
1-8 teaspoon pepper.
Put the meat through a grinder. Fry the diced pork until light brown and crisp and remove the pieces from the pan. Make a sauce of the flour, milk, and 3 table-spoons of the pork drippings. Cook the parsley and onion for a few minutes in the rest of the pork drippings, and add to this the bread crumbs and seasonings. Combine all the ingredients and use the hands to mix thoroughly. The mixture will have a sticky consistency. Lay a piece of heavy paper on a rack in an open roasting pan. Mold the meat loaf on the paper with the hands. Bake the loaf in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 1 1-4 hours. Do not cover the pan and do not add water. Much better results are obtained by making the meat loaf in this way than by packing it into a deep pan and baking it like a loaf of bread. Remove the meat loaf from the paper and serve, or chill it and serve in thin slices with water-cress garnish.

The program for the Sixteenth State Youth Conference of Ohio has been built around the theme—"Youth, the Church and Our Economic Problem."

One thousand young people are expected to participate at this conference of select youth to be held at Springfield Oct. 21, 22, 23, under the auspices of the Youth Division of The Ohio Council of Religious Education.

This conference is approved by 43 denominations and is one of a number to be held in the United States.

Jane Addams of Hull House, Chicago, has been invited to speak on "What Economic Conditions are Doing to Men."

Dr. J. Harry Cotton, minister of Broad Street Presbyterian church and Joseph Cook, Foundation lecturer to Oriental races will deliver two addresses.

Among the questions to be raised are:
In the Light of the Teachings of Jesus what is wrong with our present economic order? What is being done about it? We Do About It? Contribution to the Our Problem.

TOWNSEND PLEASED WITH GRID CROWDS

COLUMBUS, Sept. 23.—There is some good news for the bankers out on the high school football fields of Ohio which was kindly called to their attention today by Commissioner H. R. Townsend of the Ohio High School Athletic association.

After a search of the prep school gridirons of the state, Townsend reported he has found practically no evidence of the depression. The high school football business, indeed, is booming.

Moreover, Townsend cited the following proofs:

1. Crowds at opening high school football games last week were as good or better than last season.

2. Very few schools have found themselves so hard hit financially that they have been forced to cut football off their athletic program for the year.

3. The important sum of $2, which, the pessimists would have the world believe, is well-nigh unattainable, has been found in great numbers by high school athletes who require that amount to pay for insurance against football accidents.

SOME LARGER

Reports from all over the state tell of big crowds at the games officially opening the season. In some places the paid admissions were greater than last year, possibly due to the fact that prices have been cut this season, but also explainable by a growing interest in the game, especially among high schools.

Toledo St. John's is the only large school to report removal of football from its athletic program. Similar action was taken by Walnut-twp. in Pickaway-co.

The money for insurance against football accidents is coming from a wide variety of sources, Townsend said.

Parents—and who ever heard of parents having any money?—are furnishing the $2 premium for their sons in several places. Where they found the money is the big mystery to Townsend, although he supposes, in view of the hard-times reports, that another mortgage was slapped on the family castle.

ARRANGE SPECIALS

Special games are being arranged by other schools, which are paying the insurance premiums in advance and depending upon the receipts to make up the sum.

For $2, the athletes can assure themselves of remuneration for injuries suffered in football and 10 other scholastic games. The plan has been submitted to the high schools by Townsend with his approval, and is being well received.

BETTING SHIFTING AS GOMEZ LOSES

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Betters on the World Series, which had made the Yankees heavy favorites to trim the Cubs, shifted sharply today as a result of the shellacking that Vernon Gomez, star southpaw of the Yanks, received at the hands of the Athletics in Philadelphia yesterday.

The colorful castilian had been given a rest and the game was a test for him. He flunked it completely, and was yanked unceremoniously after a third-inning onslaught climaxed by homers by Fox and McNair. The Yanks rallied to win the ball game in the tenth, 8 to 7, but the failure of Gomez, remained a painful memory to Manager Joe McCarthy, who had seen his other ace Charley Ruffing, get beaten by the A's the day before.

OHIO FOOTBALL SQUADS START 1932'S RACE

Several Pushovers Carried By Gridiron Elevens In Warm-up Tilts.

BY FRANK FRIES

The "zero hour" approached today for King Football in Ohio with seven kick-offs scheduled on as many chalk-marked gridirons for this afternoon and tonight while five other tilts were carded in the Buckeye State for tomorrow.

Schedules for the most part revealed "setup" matches but here and there a real contest was promised. Here is the program:

Friday: Findlay at Dayton; Cedarville at Ashland; Indiana Teachers at Wittenburg; Waynesburg, Pa., at Muskingum; Adrian, Mich., at John Carroll; Transylvania, Ky., at Xavier; and Baldwin-Wallace at Bowling Green.

Saturday: Rio Grande at Ohio University; Wilmington at Ohio Wesleyan; Hanover, Ind., at Cincinnati; Hiram at Case; and Ohio State Reserves at Akron.

NORTHERN AT PIT
Two Ohio teams will go out of the state, Ohio Northern probably will be the victim of Pittsburgh when it meets the Panthers tomorrow and Defiance will invade Alfred College in New York State. They, too, may be going solely for the train ride.

Dayton is picked as the favorite over Findlay. However, Stuart Holcomb, former Ohio State star, and now coaching Findlay, will have his gridirons fighting every inch of the way and the little college may not be the "push-over" it seems to be offhand. Dayton should win, though.

Wittenburg and Ashland should have field days at the expense of their rivals. The Fighting Lutherans from Springfield were undefeated and untied last year.

Waynesburg college gained immortal football fame when they upset Penn State last year and its clash with Muskingum today promises to be a "top-notch" game. Muskingum was another undefeated, untied Ohio team in the 1931 season.

John Carroll should have little trouble in vanquishing Adrian and Xavier should not be extended overmuch in downing Transylvania. Once upon a time, the Kentucky school turned out great football teams but during the past few years their squads have grown weaker and weaker.

Baldwin-Wallace was undefeated and untied last year though a careful schedule may have been responsible for the most part of the record. Bowling Green is making its debut into the Ohio Conference. Their game promises to be one of the highlights and they both appear to have equal chances to emerge the winners.

OHIO U. FAVORED

On the morrow, Ohio University should swamp Rio Grande by a 100 to 0 score if they care to extend that much effort. The little Gallia-college vies with Cedarville for the somewhat doubtful honor of having the weakest team in the state. But it isn't because of lack of effort. The schools simply don't attract embryo football stars.

Ohio Wesleyan also has carded a "push-over" in Wilmington and Cincinnati should have little trouble with Hanover. Case should defeat Hiram and your correspondent wouldn't be surprised if Akron would humble the Ohio State Reserves.

There, that's the first Friday and Saturday of football in 1932; it's fairly attractive in itself and it forecasts better times for many fall Saturday afternoons to come.

VICTIM OF CHICAGO BOMB

Mrs. Ada Moyer, 16-year-old Chicago girl, who was seriously wounded by explosion of a bomb in front of the home of Judge John P. McGorty in Chicago. Mrs. Moyer and Lee Wilbur Koepfen, 16, were passing Judge McGorty's home when the bomb exploded, blowing them 10 feet away. Young Koepfen was so badly mangled he is not expected to live. Mrs. Moyer is attended by Dr. S. J. Conway.

GRIDDERS TO PLAY TONITE

With cool breezes ushering in Friday, hopes of real football weather for the opening game of the season this evening, to be played at Lancaster, were high. The Tigers, with prospects for a successful season good, will take on the Lancaster squad in a night game on North field. The contest begins at 8 p. m. and the larger the Circleville crowd the better chance the Tigers will have of giving a good account of themselves. The game is counted a home affair for the locals with a larger percentage of proceeds being gleamed for the local school on ticket sold here than in those dispensed in the Fairfield-co. metropol.

Ducats, selling at 35 cents for adults and 20 cents for students, are on sale at Hanley's and at Young's and at the high school. The band will accompany the team, and with Coach Pete Herbolz, pronouncing his team "rarrrr" to go an interesting evening should be experienced.

Fast Start Now Michigan's Need

Editors note:—This is the seventh of a series on 1932 Big Ten conference football teams.

By LEO FISCHER

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Sept. 23.—If Michigan's football team can be shoved off in high gear at the beginning of the season, they'll have nothing to worry about so far as gridiron prestige is concerned.

A week from tomorrow the Kipke aggregation opens its schedule against Michigan State. On the following week-end, the long awaited game with Northwestern will be staged here, while seven days later the Wolverines hook up with Ohio, which give them their only defeat of last season.

That's a stiff program for any team, and particularly so for Michigan, which is faced with the necessity of developing almost on-tirely new line. Only at the ends is Coach Kipke well fortified.

With Captain Ivan Williamson and Ted Petoskey as the regular ends, the flanks will be particularly strong.

COLUMBUS ATHLETE

Francis Wistert, a Chicago boy, is down as No. 1 on the list of tackles. Tom Austin of Columbus, O., and Wilard Hilderbrand of Saginaw, Mich., both sophomores, are battling for the other tackle job.

At guard, John Kowalik, who won a letter last season, is a fixture for the time being, at least. Cecil Cantrill, another junior, is being switched from tackle to bolster up the other side.

Charles Bernard of Benton Harbor seems slated to occupy the pivot post.

Newman, at quarterback, Fay and Everhardus at the halves and a sophomore named John Regeczl at fullback make up a well-balanced backfield.

NEWMAN BACK

Newman who is one of the best passers in the country, is apparently back in his 1930 form, and is far from the lad who was almost bounced off last year's squad.

Fay and Everhardus, both juniors, have outdistanced all competition for halfback jobs.

Regeczl is a plugging fool who batters his way through a line in a manner reminiscent of Herb Joesting. He weighs 180 pounds.

LUCKLESS DEAN

COLUMBUS, Sept. 23.—Fifteen hundred fans who braved the chill night air to witness the Toledo-Columbus baseball tilt under the are lights last night, were happy to day in the thought that they at least got their money's worth.

The game went 10 innings before the Mud Hens pushed across a winning run for a 3 to 2 score.

Knickerbocker, Toledo shortstop, bagged a tripple and then came home on a long fly out to earn the winning tally. The other two Toledo markers came as the result of poor fielding on the part of the Red Birds but withal it was a thrilling contest.

Paul Dean pitched for Columbus and the loss to him was heart-breaking. Both Pearson and Craghead did the hurling for the Hens and the latter was credited as the winning pitcher.

Columbus will have a chance to avenge itself today as they are scheduled to meet the Hens in a twin bill.

LOGAN ELM

such a movement as this to help rebuild it."

The Grange has always supported the Elm and since Thursday was its first meeting since the drive started it took action immediately. Officers of the grange are Ottis Leist, Master; Ed. C. Wilkins, secretary, and Charles C. Waple treasurer.

Thursday was Cresap day for the Logan Elm.

The descendants of the man whom Chief Logan wrongfully, by reason of misinformation, accused of having murdered his family and all his kin, contributed the largest sum that has come from any one group to save the tree under which the aggrieved Indian delivered his famous speech.

The speech is accepted by scholars as an almost unexcelled expression of human despair, ending, as it does, thus:

"There runs not a drop of my blood in the veins of any living creature. This called on me for revenge. I have sought it; I have killed many; I have fully glutted my vengeance. For my country I rejoice at the beams of peace. But do not harbor a thought that mine is the joy of fear. Logan never felt fear. He would not turn on his heel to save his life. Who is there to mourn for Logan? No one."

DUNMORE'S GUIDE

Capt. Michael Cresap was one of Lord Dunmore's guides on the expedition which resulted in peace with the Indians 158 years ago, when the Logan Elm already was a tree of distinctive size and beauty.

Former Lieutenant Governor Charles H. Lewis of Harpster, now chairman of the Republican state executive committee, and Frank Tallmadge of Columbus whose services for the Logan Elm are well known, contributed $50, requested that it be placed in the name of the Cresap Society, a national organization.

Mark W. Cresap of Hart, Schaffner & Marx, Chicago, and Lieutenant Commander Logan Cresap, U. S. navy, New York, and the latter's two sons, also contributed.

"Two of us (himself and son) get our given names from the same source at the old elm and we are interested to see it perpetuated in an upright and substantial way, whether by trees or men," wrote Logan Cresap, Sr.

A Cresap who died recently in Iowa requested that a seedling of the old elm be planted on her grave.

A Cresap monument has been erected in Logan Elm Park.

The Cresaps have, of course, long since forgiven the erring accusation made by Chief Logan.

HOSTAGES TAKEN BY BANK BANDITS

REDWOOD FALLS, Minn.

Sept. 23.—Five bandits armed with submachine guns raided the State bank of Redwood Falls today and escaped with $25,000. They forced K. F. Hassentav, cashier, and Mona Lehen, stenographer, into their large automobile as hostage. Hassentav and Miss Lehen were thrown out of the car a mile south of town.

COMING To End RUPTURE Troubles

Representatives of W. S. Rice, Adams, N. Y., originator of the Rice Method for the self-treatment of rupture at home, will be at the American Hotel, Circleville, Ohio, Wednesday, Sept. 28, also Cherry Hotel, Washington, C. H., Ohio, Thursday, Sept. 29, to give a personal and free trial of his method to all sufferers who want to end rupture trouble and truss wearing. No matter how bad the rupture, how long you have had it, or how hard to hold, no matter how many kinds of trusses you have worn, let nothing prevent you from getting this FREE TRIAL. Whether you are tall and thin, short and stout, have a large abdomen, whether you think you are past help or have a rupture as large as your fists, this marvelous method will so control and keep it up inside as to surprise you. It will so restore the parts where the rupture comes through that soon you will be as free to work at any occupation as though you had never been ruptured. The trial will be absolutely complete and thorough without a penny of cost. You owe it to your own personal comfort and safety not to miss the great free demonstration. It is a real opportunity to learn how you may be done with chafing trusses and the danger, suffering and trouble your rupture has caused. The hours are 10 to 12 a. m., 2 to 5 p. m. and evenings 7 to 8. Remember the dates and place, Circleville, Ohio, American Hotel, Wednesday, Sept. 28, also Cherry Hotel, Washington, C. H., Ohio, Thursday, Sept. 29.

NEW DISCOVERIES CONFIRM VIRTUES OF BRAN IN DIET

Supplies "Bulk" and Vitamin B for Constipation; Also Iron for Blood

For ten years, now, millions have found Kellogg's ALL-BRAN a safe, pleasant way to overcome common constipation—with the headaches, loss of appetite and energy that so often result from this condition.

Recent laboratory tests show that ALL-BRAN supplies "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract. In addition, ALL-BRAN contains twice as much blood-building iron, by weight, as beef liver.

This "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like the "bulk" in lettuce. Inside the body, it absorbs moisture and forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

Special cooking processes make ALL-BRAN finer, softer, more palatable. It is not habit-forming. Think how much better it is to enjoy this delicious cereal than to take endless pills and drugs, which often lead to harmful habits.

Two tablespoons daily—in serious cases with every meal—are usually sufficient. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Serve ALL-BRAN as a cereal with milk or cream, or use in cooking. Appetizing recipes on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Eggs (especially for children).
Lean meat, fish, or poultry or cheese.

THE SCHOOL DAY LUNCH

Returning school-days bring back the problem of the school-day lunch. School cafeterias lessen the problem for some mothers but most children must carry lunch to school or come home to eat it. What, then, shall they have for lunch?

Growing children, food specialists say, have special needs in the way of food. Even when they eat all their meals at home, it is no easy matter to see that they are properly fed, and when they eat part of their meals at school, the difficulty is far greater. This, the bureau points out, is not because healthfulness and cleanliness are more important in this meal than in any other, but because they are harder to secure. It is not easy to keep food clean and attractive when it must be packed and carried to school.

Unfortunately, too, most of the foods that children need for the development of strong healthy bodies cost more than some of the foods that are more filling. Many families can not afford unlimited quantities of milk, eggs, butter, fruits, and vegetables. Cereals and sugar are cheaper; they furnish more body fuel, and are more filling. So these carbohydrate foods are relied on to a great extent—often to a much greater extent than is healthful. In fact, in the light of present knowledge of the requirements of the human body in childhood, one of the worst diets that could be devised would be made up chiefly of bread and sweets.

It is feasible, however, the bureau says, to keep down the cost of the diet by getting a large part of the necessary fuel from those cheapest sources, provided proper quantities of other necessary foods are supplied first; that is, if each child has each day a pint and a half or a quart of milk, at least a serving of tomato, or orange, a green-colored vegetable, and an ounce of butter.

At many schools where no lunches are served, the children can get milk. In such cases, the rest of the lunch is less of a problem.

Offers to Give Away Children

Driven desperate by years of privation and marital unhappiness, Mrs. Florence Serena of Vandergrift, Pa., has offered to give her triplets and young baby (the youngest of seven children) to anyone who will provide them with a good home. The frantic mother fears that she will be forced to watch her children starve to death if there is no response to her appeal. The triplets are, left to right, John, Eleanor and Harry. The child in her arms is Elmer.

lem. If the child can not get milk at school, and can not carry it to school, then more is necessary to balance his daily diet. A cheese sandwich—cottage cheese, cream, or American cheddar—with plenty of butter, will help to meet the child's requirements for calcium and vitamin A otherwise supplied by milk. A fresh tomato, an orange, or other fruit—always desirable—the more important if the child must do without milk at lunch.

With waxed paper, paper napkins, paper cups, plates and covered containers, nowadays so cheap, the paper bag has largely taken the place of the school lunch box or lunch basket. This makes for cleanliness and convenience in packing the lunch.

In hot weather, the use of soft, moist foods should be avoided. Although chopped meat moistened with dressing of some kind makes a good sandwich filling, such foods are less desirable in hot weather than slices of meat, peanut butter, cheese, or other foods, which are not so likely to spoil.

For lunch to be carried to school the following suggestions are offered:

SUGGESTED LUNCHES TO CARRY TO SCHOOL

1. Sandwiches with scrambled egg filling and lettuce. A firm tomato. Cookies. Milk.
2. Chopped cold cooked meat sandwiches, filling moistened with chili sauce, lettuce leaf, Apple or grapes. Milk.
3. Sandwiches filled with cottage cheese salted and mixed with any of these: Chow chow, chili sauce, chopped dill pickle, green pepper, celery, parsley, onion, or other salad vegetable, chopped nuts. Cup cake. Milk.

4. Peanut butter sandwiches—or ground shelled roasted peanuts moistened with cream or top milk—on whole wheat bread. Raw crisp cucumber sticks or celery. Cup custard or rice pudding. Milk.
5. Sandwiches of dried beef "frizzled" in butter, with crisp lettuce, cream or chopped parsley. Banana or dried fruit. Milk.
6. Baked bean sandwiches on brown bread, the beans moistened with chili sauce or catsup and mashed to a smooth paste. Raw carrot sticks, raisins. Milk.

For school day lunches at home, here are some suggestions:

1. Baked potato and bacon. Fresh tomato and lettuce. Bread and butter. Muskmelon.
2. Milk-vegetable soup. Scalloped cabbage and apples. Buttered toast. Milk. Raisin cup cake.
3. Brown rice. Buttered. Kale. Milk. Stewed dried apricots. Oatmeal cookie.
4. Sieved Lima beans with bacon. Baked tomato. Bread and butter. Milk. Apple brown betty or apple sauce.
5. Creamed fish with vegetables. Buttered toast. Milk. Peach or apple tapioca.
6. Scrambled eggs. Panned cabbage. Toast. Milk. Fruit gelatin.

RECIPES

Boston Brown Bread
1 cup corn meal and 1 cup rye meal, or 2 cups corn meal.
1 cup Graham flour;
1 teaspoon salt;
3-4 cup molasses;
2 cups sour milk, and 1 1-2 teaspoons soda, or 2 cups sweet milk, 1-4 teaspoon soda, and 4 teaspoons baking powder;
Mix the dry ingredient and add the molasses and the milk. Beat the mixture thoroughly, and pour into greased molds until they are about three-fourths full. Cover loosely to keep out the moisture, and steam for 3-4 hours. Remove the covers and bake the bread in a moderate oven for about 10 minutes to dry it off. If the bread seems likely to crumble, loop a string around the loaf and cut slices by pulling the ends of the string.

Beef Loaf
2 pounds lean beef;
1 cup diced salt pork (about 1-2 pound);
4 tablespoons flour;
1 1-2 cups milk;
1 cup chopped parsley;
1-4 cup chopped onion;
1 cup fine, dry bread crumbs;

YOUNG LEADERS STUDY PROBLEMS

Youth everywhere is seeking the truth about the economic problem. They are asking why there is so much unemployment, poverty, hunger, idleness? Why is there an abundance of wheat, meat and shoes while many people are in dire need? Why are so many people losing their farms and homes through foreclosure?

2 teaspoons salt;
1-8 teaspoon pepper.
Put the meat through a grinder. Fry the diced pork until light brown and crisp and remove the pieces from the pan. Make a sauce of the pork drippings. Cook the parsley and onion for a few minutes in the rest of the pork drippings, and add to this the bread crumbs and seasonings. Combine all the ingredients and use the hands to mix thoroughly. The mixture will have a sticky consistency. Lay a piece of heavy paper on a rack in an open roasting pan. Mold the meat loaf on the paper with the hands. Bake the loaf in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 1-1 1/4 hours. Do not cover the pan and do not add water. Much better results are obtained by making the meat loaf in this way than by packing it into a deep pan and baking it like a loaf of bread. Remove the meat loaf from the paper and serve, or chill it and serve in thin slices with water-cress garnish.

The program for the Sixteenth State Youth Conference of Ohio has been built around the theme—"Youth, the Church and Our Economic Problem."

One thousand young people are expected to participate at this conference of select youth to be held at Springfield Oct. 21, 22, 23, under the auspices of the Youth Division of The Ohio Council of Religious Education.

This conference is approved by 43 denominations and is one of a number to be held in the United States.

Jane Addams of Hull House, Chicago, has been invited to speak on "What Economic Conditions are Doing to Men."

Dr. J. Harry Cotton, minister of Broad Street Presbyterian church and Joseph Cook, Foundation lecturer to Oriental races will deliver two addresses.

Among the questions to be raised are:
In the Light of the Teachings of Jesus what is wrong with our present economic order? What is being done about it? What Can We Do About It? The Church's Contribution to the Solution of Our Problem.

La Follette and Conqueror

After one of the heaviest votes ever cast in the state primaries, Governor Philip La Follette (left), of Wisconsin, champion of the Progressive faction, went down to defeat before former Governor Walter J. Kohler, Conservative, for the Republican nomination for Governor. Observers say that Kohler's victory is significant inasmuch as it is an indication that the La Follette dynasty, which has governed Wisconsin over a period of a quarter of a century, has fallen from power.

The Fight for Economy

IN their fight for immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus the veterans are likely to find the National Economy League a most effective adversary. Prestige is given it by the prominence of its directorate and membership, which means pronouncements will carry great weight with the rank and file of voters.

The league was organized to work for a sound reduction in unjustified pension outlays and to oppose just such a bonus demand as has been made, but the existence of waste and extravagance and excess in every branch of government caused the league early to broaden its scope. The pension and bonus question is still likely to prove the hardest nut to crack.

Three points made by the league are that payment of the bonus now would menace the financial stability of the nation and prolong unemployment and the depression, would be a surrender of vital public interests to the dictation of an organized minority.

Where the public treasury and private finances equal to it, it is unlikely that the taxpayers would have rebelled against this added burden. They also know that the needy veteran and his family are receiving as good care as the millions of families in which there is unemployment.

There is a lot of the get-even attitude in the current insistence on another bonus payment which cannot but lower the prestige of the veterans' organizations and stir resentment of every oppressed taxpayer toward the bonus advocates.

The only part the National Economy League is playing in the controversy is as a sunbeam, illuminating the subject and focusing the rays of public opinion upon it.

Weatherman's Score

LAY readers of the official daily weather forecasts may have smiled ironically at the recent claim of the official prophets to 90 per cent accuracy. They have in mind days when the sun beat upon official forecasts of snow in the newspapers, or of picnics, planned on fair and warmer promises, postponed on account of rain. Many, no doubt, wonder if the claim wasn't intended to read "90 per cent inaccurate."

But the forecasters put up an argument. Their alibi is that the man on the street doesn't always know what is going on atmospherically. When the forecaster predicts snow his wisdom is justified by a mere trace of snow somewhere. When he forecasts rain, if a trace of moisture dampens his sensitive instruments he is 100 per cent correct.

It is easily possible for the weather man to be 90 per cent accurate and yet appear to be 90 per cent wrong. Weather is fickle, particularly in mountainous regions, where showers and sunshine may alternate a dozen times in a dozen hours or occur side by side in the same square mile. Shifting air currents can bring rain within a few hours after they have revealed continued fair weather to the meteorologist.

Misunderstanding occurs between the weather man and the weather conscious because in the understanding of the latter an official weather report applies to their own half acre.

Brighter Horizon

EUROPE's financial horizon is the brightest it has been since pre-war days, due largely to a sudden restoration of popular confidence in the international financial structure.

Were this not true France would not have decided upon her great loan conversion. A successful conversion implies confidence on the part of the people in the strength and solvency of the nation over a long future. Investors are asked to exchange a greater present profit for long time investments which are attractive only if their security is considered beyond question.

Heroic remedies for the country's financial ills prescribed in 1926 by M. Poincare have given France a financial position of unassailable strength. With the exception of a handful of communists and extreme nationalists the present fiscal program has the united backing of the people. Politics do not enter into it.

Great Britain has just given a magnificent demonstration of popular faith in the financial future of the empire; the German situation is easing, and Southern Europe is without financial crises.

Improved conditions abroad are not without benefit to the United States. August brought the first upturn in exports and imports since March and a favorable trade balance of $18,000,000. No country can improve its well-being without radiating a little economic sunshine beyond its borders.

"MURDER of the NIGHT CLUB LADY"

THE NEW THATCHER COLT DETECTIVE MYSTERY

BY ANTHONY ABBOT

COPYRIGHT, 1931, BY COVICI-FRIEDE INC., DISTRIBUTED BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

SYNOPSIS

Lola Carewe, "The Night Club Lady", is mysteriously murdered in her penthouse apartment at three o'clock New Year's morning. An hour later, the body of Lola's guest, Christine Quires, is found in Lola's room. Christine had been killed first and her body hidden. Dr. Hugh Baldwin attributes both deaths due to heart failure. Guy Everett, Christine's New Year's Eve escort, claims he brought her home at 12:15 and then went riding, alone, on the Motor Parkway. Mrs. Carewe, Lola's mother, denies seeing Christine return. Police Commissioner Thatcher Colt discounts District Attorney Dougherty's theory that Lola was killed by a jewel thief ring she headed and that Christine met the same fate for knowing too much. Vincent Rowland, Lola's lawyer, discloses that Everett loved Lola and was jealous of Dr. Baldwin. The Commissioner telephones a picture of a young man, named Basil, found on Lola's dresser, to the Paris Prefect of Police requesting that he identify it and investigate Lola's past. The police are on the trail of Christine's brother, Edgar, who left his Rochester home for New York after receiving a telegram New Year's Eve. Christine was to have inherited wealth shortly. Dr. Multooler, the medical examiner, contradicts Dr. Baldwin's statement that heart failure caused the deaths. A strap picked up in Lola's room presents mute evidence of having caused the bruise on Christine's neck—after death. Everett confesses he lied about riding on the Motor Parkway.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX

I REALIZED after I left that you would find me out. Then I saw how you might misinterpret that. The only reason I didn't tell you straight off was that I didn't want to get mixed up in any stew. It was none of my affair and I wanted to keep out of it. I have had trouble with Lola Carewe over money. You might as well know now the kind of woman Lola was. She blackmailed. She did it to me—and to God knows who else!"

"Blackmailed?" exclaimed Dougherty, with an astounded look at his blue eyes. "Lola Carewe—a blackmailer?"

"She was!" avouched Everett with a solemn glance at the District Attorney. "May I speak to you gentlemen in confidence?"

"If it is not vital to the case," stipulated Thatcher Colt.

"I am sure you will not betray me!" cried the actor passionately. "There is a secret I tried to keep. My grandmother was a Negress from Trinidad. Lola knew that. She knew that I could not play roman roles in the American theater and Hollywood if that fact were published. So she blackmailed me. She had a broker who was in on her schemes. She collected the money on the pretense of investing. She felt it was safer than just taking the money—somebody might squeal. It is a game that is practiced all over New York today—it explains to many wives why their husbands insist on stock-market gambling and continued losses—a new blackmail alibi. With me, Lola was relentless. She would take my last cent. I gave her funds I held from my father in trust for my mother. In desperation, I pretended to be in love with her. Yes—I was willing to act that part in order to marry her, and hope to get free of this unceasing tribute. I suppose I was crazy—but I thought I could touch her heart, and win peace by shamming love. It was no go. She told me her love was dead; she loved only money and pleasure now. Why, Mr. Colt, I even paid money to Eunice James to tip me off as to what happened in that apartment—I wanted to get something on Lola, if I could—so that I could even counter-blackmail her, if possible, and thus work myself free. I believed that Christine Quires did not like my profession and worked against me. I still wanted to marry Lola and I took a long chance and asked Christine out last night in the hope of getting her on my side. Because I pleaded so hard, she turned down several other men for me. But, Mr. Colt, when Christine talked to me last night, I learned that she was living in terror of her life!"

Wildly Guy Everett looked from Colt to Dougherty and then back to Police Commissioner.

"In terror of her life," he repeated. "She told me that she had made a terrible discovery involving Lola Carewe. She also said that Doctor Baldwin was deeply mixed up in it. She said she didn't know what to do. She had found out a plot to take Lola's life—and because she had found it out, she felt that her own life was in danger. At one moment she was tempted to go to the police and tell them what she knew. But then she would think better of it. She wanted my advice."

"Who was it that she found out meant to kill Lola?" cut in Colt anxiously.

"Ah, she wouldn't tell me that," groaned Guy Everett, gracefully flicking his silk handkerchief against his brow. "I begged. I treated. I cajoled. I pleaded. I harassed the poor girl, until she claimed she felt ill and made me bring her home. I offered to take her to a hotel. No, she wouldn't hear of it. She finally said the best thing to do was to go back to the apartment and have the whole thing out. But she wouldn't give in one inch and tell me anything about the matter that had worried her so. And that was all!"

"Did you ever threaten Lola?" asked Dougherty, recalling the story we had heard in the penthouse.

"Yes. We had several violent scenes. But I meant her no real harm!"

"Of course not," purred Dougherty, folding his hands over his vest.

"She gave you not even a hint?" asked Colt in a low tone.

"I have told you all that I know. And I ask your pardon for having lied in the first place. I don't know what it all means—but perhaps what I have told you will help you!"

Colt gave the exhausted Thesplan a drink. For more than half an hour the Commissioner and the District Attorney pried at Everett with questions, but they learned nothing more than he had already told them. He gave his promise that he would remain at the Axtion Club for the rest of the day, subject to call. With his face warmed with his whiskey and soda, and a light of relief in his eye, Guy Everett bowed himself through the door. As soon as he was gone, I telephoned to Headquarters, assigning a man to the North Star speakeasy, to confirm, if possible, Everett's story that he was there.

"If that isn't substantiation of my theory, I don't know what it is," exulted Dougherty. "Christine had found out something."

"About Lola's life being in danger—not about jewels," said Colt. "And don't forget Christine's unreasoning fear of Chung."

"That's Mrs. Carewe's story," demurred Dougherty. "Somehow, I don't put much stock in that."

"This dramatic confession of Everett's doesn't clear him, either," continued Colt. "He made it only after he knew we had penetrated his alibi. And he took time to think up a careful story. But it is remarkable that he drags in Doctor Baldwin's name again. I am afraid we shall have to look carefully into Doctor Baldwin and his connections!"

Arthur had poured fresh coffee and we needed it. Now he returned, bearing a sealed police department envelope on a silver tray. Colt seized it instantly, remarking to Dougherty that it was unquestionably the report from the department chemist on Doctor Baldwin's hypodermic solution. It repeated what Multooler had told us:

"As for the hypodermic administered by Doctor Baldwin, examination of the subject and of the apparatus employed, demonstrates conclusively that no poison was given Lola Carewe or Christine Quires through the hypodermic needle. There was no drug in that needle aside from a moderate and harmless quantity of adrenalin which Doctor Baldwin had mercifully administered."

It was now the full light of morning. We bathed and shaved in Colt's variously tinted bathrooms and then in the Commissioner's car we rode downtown. Very little was said on that hasty journey—we had talked and thought the long night through and for this brief interval we rested. On the sidewalk in front of the old Georgian Headquarters building—in bright sunshine that had inherited New York from the storm of the night before—we arranged to lunch together at the District Attorney's club atop the Chrysler Building, and then Dougherty hastened on to his office.

It was just eight o'clock on that morning of January first, when Thatcher Colt and I returned to the Commissioner's private office at the north end of the second floor of the building at 240 Center Street.

On the chief's desk lay the early tabloids screaming out the tale of the double murders. In a neat pile beside them was stacked a sheaf of reports on various angles of the case, and Colt prepared to plunge directly into them, as Flynn, red-eyed and remorseless, came in, saluted, and slouched on a chair beside the Commissioner.

"I can summarize most of that for you, chief!" proposed the Inspector, amiably closing one eye.

"Shoot!"

"I've had fifty men working all night long, yanking people out of bed and our information is fairly complete. It doesn't help us much. I had a talk with Lola's lawyer this morning. He says she had no enemies that he knows of."

"A man with a positive genius for misinformation!" commented Colt.

"Right, chief. Anyway, he says she's filthy rich; he has the keys of her safe-deposit boxes but won't give them up without a court order. I left word with the D. A.'s office."

"Right. We'll get the keys in an hour. What next?"

"Well, chief—you were right about that hair you found at the pent-house."

"It did come from Christine Quire's head?"

"No doubt about that. It's with the property clerk now."

"Leave it there until I need it. Next?"

"We've looked up the private lives of everybody in the case, pretty near. Lowell Courtleigh, the elevator boy, is okay. His reputation's all right and he has a whole apartment house full of witnesses. Courtleigh is eliminated."

"Not so hot. He got in before the Exclusion Act. Comes of pretty well-to-do family—all Chinks, of course, but plenty of jack. The Consulate in New York say he is a good man, but the Legation in Washington say he is too active with some radical Chinese political movements. He is well acquainted with an Italian married woman, wife of an artichoke dealer in East Harlem, and a tattooed lady in a museum on Fourteenth Street."

The Daily Horoscope

Friday, Sept. 23, 1932

Fairly good aspects operate especially in the late afternoon hours, however the whole day may be considered promising, and should be devoted to commonsense methods that require pluck, energy and perseverance; the muscular system should be in fine tone and the outdoor worker will find activities and projects easy to carry out.

This is a splendid period in which to attend to important business affairs, especially those relating to contracts, land property, products of the earth, leasing, renting, presenting new propositions and making collections. It is also a good day to negotiate sales and place advertisements in the paper.

The aspects of the afternoon and evening release a great deal of dynamic energy, which if properly controlled and directed, may be used for the purpose of producing a great deal of work. Those employed on ships or boats should gain by this aspect.

Some of the states east of the Mississippi may be greatly benefited through the inheritance tax left by prominent people who own large estates. In London, important questions will be discussed relative to transportation, benefiting the masses.

The stars seem to promise a pleasant evening which may be devoted to matters of art, pleasure and domesticity.

Children born on this day should have great charm and personal magnetism, also be fond of clothes and society.

(Gaius Octavianus) Augustus, Roman emperor, was born on this day. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include William Archer, English critic, James Carroll Beckwith, 1852, American painter.

Rabbits Won't Bite, but Be On Guard

They and Squirrels, Too, May Cause Tularemia to Those Who Handle Them.

By Royal S. Copeland, M. D.
United States Senator from New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

TULAREMIA is not a common disease, but I am writing about it because several of my readers have written me requesting information about the ailment.

It used to be believed that tularemia afflicted animals alone. It menaced most commonly the wild rabbit and squirrel. Now it is known to afflict man as easily as animals.

Tularemia is caused by a germ called the "bacillus tularemense." The disease is transmitted, either by handling diseased animals, or by the bite of insects which have fed on diseased animals. Butchers and laboratory workers who skin or handle animals are those most in danger of becoming infected.

The germ enters the body through a tiny scratch or cut on the hand, and at the point of infection a pustule or pimple soon appears. The part becomes red and swollen. The glands about the elbow and in the armpit are swollen and tender. Other symptoms are headache, fever, chills, general body pains, nausea and vomiting.

Effects of Tularemia
These attacks vary in severity. The fever may be persistent, lasting for several weeks. Convalescence may be slow, and several months may elapse before the afflicted person regains his normal health.

Most of the cases reported have been traced to the handling of infected rabbits, and precautions should be taken against infection from that source. During the rabbit season it is advisable that butchers wear gloves, and rabbits should be carefully examined for any possible signs of contamination.

The animal suffering from tularemia appears ill and does not scurry away when the hunter approaches. On examination after killing, the infected rabbit shows many whitish spots on the surface of the liver and other organs. When this appearance is found the animal should be discarded.

Thorough Cooking Essential
Fortunately, thorough cooking kills the germ of tularemia. Cases of tularemia poisoning from infected animals occur only when the meat has been improperly cooked.

If you handle rabbits, wear gloves and make sure that you have no cuts or abrasions on your hands or arms. Examine the liver and other internal organs, and if you find the small white spots I have described, the animal is probably infected and should not be used. Infected animal meat should be destroyed by burning.

Early attention to the destruction of diseased animals will do much to prevent spread of the disease. Governmental agencies are at work all the time to wipe out this menace.

LOOKING BACK
In Pickaway County

10 YEARS AGO

SEVERAL survivors of the 114th regiment, O. V. I., celebrated the 60th anniversary of leaving Camp Circleville, Sept. 19 and 20, on the David Ludwig farm. The event was a big one and attracted state-wide attention. Capt. E. L. Hawk, one of the backers of the move, came from Sacramento, Calif.

Humane authorities were called to Monroe-twp where tales of cruelty to animals are being told. One farmer was found to have penned two cows in an enclosure three feet by six feet for six weeks. They were both badly wounded by wire which was placed through their noses.

MOVIES

AT THE CLIFTONA

Nothing in Hollywood brings such widespread rejoicing as the making of a film with a New York background.

The reason for this feeling of jubilation is the vast number of picture people to whom it brings employment, for the depiction of the New York scene implies crowds, movement, big sets and spectacular effects.

No less than 4,000 of the Hollywood mob benefited directly thru the filming of "Blondie of the Follies," which Edmund Goulding directed for Metro-Goldwyn Mayer. This picture brings Marion Davis and Robert Montgomery to the Cliftona Theatre, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Marion Davies and Billie Dove portray two show girls. Robert Montgomery is a young man-about-town who learns about women from them.

Others in the cast are Jimmy Durante, James Gleason, Zasu Pitts, Sidney Toler, Douglas Dumbrille, Sarah Padden, Louise Carter, Clyde Cook and the Rocky Twins, male dancing stars from the Paris stage.

No doubt New York ferry boat inspectors use the Hudson tube.

The Fight for Economy

Their fight for immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus veterans are likely to find the National Economy League a most effective adversary. Prestige is given it by the prominence of its directorate and membership, which means pronouncements will carry great weight with the rank and file of voters.

The league was organized to work for a sound reduction in unjustified pension outlays and to oppose just such a bonus demand as has been made, but the existence of waste and extravagance and excess in every branch of government caused the league early to broaden its scope. The pension and bonus question is still likely to prove the hardest nut to crack.

Three points made by the league are that payment of the bonus now would menace the financial stability of the nation and prolong unemployment and the depression, would be a surrender of vital public interests to the dictation of an organized minority.

Where the public treasury and private finances equal to it, it is unlikely that the taxpayers would have rebelled against this added burden. They also know that the needy veteran and his family are receiving as good care as the millions of families in which there is unemployment.

There is a lot of the get-even attitude in the current insistence on another bonus payment which cannot but lower the prestige of the veterans' organizations and stir resentment of every oppressed taxpayer toward the bonus advocates.

The only part the National Economy League is playing in the controversy is as a sunbeam, illuminating the subject and focusing the rays of public opinion upon it.

Weatherman's Score

LAY readers of the official daily weather forecasts may have smiled sardonically at the recent claim of the official prophets to 90 per cent accuracy.

They have in mind days when the sun beat upon official forecasts of snow in the newspapers, or of picnics, planned on fair and warmer promises, postponed on account of rain.

Many, no doubt, wonder if the claim wasn't intended to read "90 per cent inaccurate."

But the forecasters put up an argument. Their alibi is that the man on the street doesn't always know what is going on atmospherically. When the forecaster predicts snow his wisdom is justified by a mere trace of snow somewhere. When he forecasts rain, if a trace of moisture dampens his sensitive instruments he is 100 per cent perfect.

It is easily possible for the weather man to be 90 per cent accurate and yet appear to be 90 per cent wrong. Weather is fickle, particularly in mountainous regions, where showers and sunshine may alternate a dozen times in a dozen hours or occur side by side in the same square mile.

Shifting air currents can bring rain within a few hours after they have revealed a continuing fair weather to the meteorologist.

Misunderstanding occurs between the weather man and the weather conscious because in the understanding of the latter an official weather report applies to their own half acre.

Brighter Horizon

EUROPE's financial horizon is the brightest it has been since pre-war days, due largely to a sudden restoration of popular confidence in the international financial structure.

Were this not true France would not have decided upon her great loan conversion. A successful conversion implies confidence on the part of the people in the strength and solvency of the nation over a long future. Investors are asked to exchange a greater present profit for long time investments which are attractive only if their security is considered beyond question.

Harmon remedies for the country's financial ills are presented in 1926 by M. Poincaré have given France a financial position of unassailable strength. With the exception of a handful of communists and extreme nationalists the present fiscal program has the united backing of the people. Politics do not enter into it.

Great Britain has just given a magnificent demonstration of popular faith in the financial future of the empire, the German situation is easing, and Southern Europe is without financial crises.

Improved conditions abroad are not without benefit to the United States. August brought the first upturn in exports and imports since March and a favorable trade balance of $18,000,000. No country can improve its well-being without radiating a little economic sunshine beyond its borders.

"MURDER of the NIGHT CLUB LADY"

THE NEW THATCHER COLT DETECTIVE MYSTERY

BY ANTHONY ABBOT

COPYRIGHT, 1931 BY COWLEY-FRIEDLE INC. DISTRIBUTED BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

SYNOPSIS
 Lola Carewe, "The Night Club Lady," is mysteriously murdered in her penthouse apartment at three o'clock New Year's morning. An hour later, the body of Lola's guest, Christine Quirens, is found in Lola's room. Christine had been killed first and her body hidden. Dr. Hugh Baldwin attributes both deaths to heart failure. Guy Everett, Christine's New Year's Eve escort, claims he brought her home at 12:15 and then went riding, alone, on the Motor Parkway. Mrs. Carewe, Lola's mother, denies seeing Christine return. Police Commissioner Thatcher Colt discounts District Attorney Dougherty's theory that Lola was killed by a jewel thief ring she headed and that Christine met the same fate for knowing too much. Vincent Rowland, Lola's lawyer, discloses that Everett loved Lola and was jealous of Dr. Baldwin. The Commissioner telephones a picture of a young man named Basil, found on Lola's dresser, to the Paris Prefect of Police, requesting that he identify it and investigate Lola's past. The police are on the trail of Christine's brother, Edgar, who left his Rochester home for New York after receiving a telegram New Year's Eve. Christine was to have inherited wealth shortly. Dr. Multooler, the medical examiner, contradicts Dr. Baldwin's statement that heart failure caused the deaths. A strap picked up in Lola's room presents mute evidence of having caused the bruise on Christine's neck—after death. Everett confesses he lied about riding on the Motor Parkway.

free. I believed that Christine Quirens did not like my profession and worked against me. I still wanted to marry Lola and I took a long chance and asked Christine out last night in the hope of getting her on my side. Because I pleaded so hard, she turned down several other men for me. But, Mr. Colt, when Christine talked to me last night, I learned that she was living in terror of her life!"

Wildly Guy Everett looked from Colt to Dougherty and then back to Police Commissioner.

"In terror of her life," he repeated. "She told me that she had made a terrible discovery involving Lola Carewe. She also said that Doctor Baldwin was deeply mixed up in it. She said she didn't know what to do. She had found out a plot to take Lola's life—and because she had found it out, she felt that her own life was in danger. At one moment she was tempted to go to the police and tell them what she knew. But then she would think better of it. She wanted my advice."

"Who was it that she found out meant to kill Lola?" cut in Colt anxiously.

"Ah, she wouldn't tell me that," groaned Guy Everett, gracefully flicking his silk handkerchief against his brow. "I begged. I entreated. I caajoled. I pleaded. I harassed the poor girl, until she claimed she felt ill and made me bring her home. I offered to take her to a hotel. No, she wouldn't hear of it. She finally said the best thing to do was to go back to the apartment and have the whole thing out. But she wouldn't give in one inch and tell me anything about the matter that had worried her so. And that was all!"

"Did you ever threaten Lola?" asked Dougherty, recalling the story he had heard in the penthouse.

"Yes. We had several violent scenes. But I meant her no real harm!"

"Of course not," purred Dougherty, folding his hands over his vest.

"She gave you not even a hint?" asked Colt in a low tone.

"I have told you all that I know. And I ask your pardon for having lied in the first place. I don't know what it all means—but perhaps what I have told you will help you!"

Colt gave the exhausted Thespian a drink. For more than half an hour the Commissioner and the District Attorney pried at Everett with questions, but they learned nothing more than he had already told them. He gave his promise that he would remain at the Axtion Club for the rest of the day, subject to call. With his face warmed with his whiskey and soda, and a light of relief in his eyes, Guy Everett bowed himself through the door. As soon as he was gone, I telephoned to Headquarters, assigning a man to the North Star speakeasy, to confirm, if possible, Everett's story that he was there.

"If that isn't substantiation of my theory, I don't know what it is," exulted Dougherty. "Christine had found out something."

"About Lola's life being in danger—not about jewels," said Colt. "And don't forget Christine's unreasoning fear of Chung."

"That's Mrs. Carewe's story," demurred Dougherty. "Somehow, I don't put much stock in that."

"This dramatic confession of Everett's doesn't clear him, either," continued Colt. "He made it only after he knew we had punctured his alibi. And he took time to think up a careful story. But it is remarkable that he drags in Doctor Baldwin's name again. I am afraid we shall have to look carefully into Doctor Baldwin and his connections!"

Arthur had poured fresh coffee and we needed it. Now he returned, bearing a sealed police department envelope on a silver tray. Colt seized it instantly, remarking to Dougherty that it was unquestionably the report from the department chemist on Doctor Baldwin's hypodermic solution. It repeated what Multooler had told us:

"As for the hypodermic administered by Doctor Baldwin, examination of the subject and of the apparatus employed, demonstrates conclusively that no poison was given Lola Carewe or Christine Quirens through the hypodermic needle. There was no drug in that needle aside from a moderate and harmless quantity of adrenalin which Doctor Baldwin had mercifully administered."

It was now the full light of morning. We bathed and shaved in Colt's variously tinted bathrooms and then in the Commissioner's car we rode downtown. Very little was said on that hasty journey—we had talked and thought the long night through and for this brief interval we rested. On the sidewalk in front of the old Georgian Headquarters building—in bright sunshine that had inherited New York from the storm of the night before—we arranged to lunch together at the District Attorney's club atop the Chrysler Building, and then Dougherty hastened on to his office.

It was just eight o'clock on that morning of January first, when Thatcher Colt and I returned to the Commissioner's private office at the north end of the second floor of the building at 240 Center Street.

On the chief's desk lay the early tabloids screaming out the tale of the double murders. In a neat pile beside them was stacked a sheaf of reports on various angles of the case, and Colt prepared to plunge directly into them, as Flynn, red-eyed and remorseless, came in, saluted, and slouched on a chair beside the Commissioner.

"I can summarize most of that for you, chief!" proposed the Inspector, amiably closing one eye.

"Shoot!"

"I've had fifty men working all night long, yanking people out of bed and our information is fairly complete. It doesn't help us much. I had a talk with Lola's lawyer this morning. He says she had no enemies that he knows of."

"A man with a positive genius for misinformation!" commented Colt.

"Right, chief. Anyway, he says she's filthy rich; he has the keys of her safe-deposit boxes but won't give them up without a court order. I left word with the D. A.'s office."

"Right. We'll get the keys in an hour. What next?"

"Well, chief—you were right about that hat you found at the penthouse."

"It did come from Christine Quirens' head?"

"No doubt about that. It's with the property clerk now."

"Leave it there until I need it. Next?"

"We've looked up the private lives of everybody in the case, pretty near. Lowell Courtleigh, the elevator boy, is okay. His reputation's all right and he has a whole apartment house full of witnesses. Courtleigh is eliminated."

"Chung?"

"Not so hot. He got in before the Exclusion Act. Comes of pretty well-to-do family—all Chinks, of course, but plenty of jack. The Consulate in New York says he is a good man, but the Legation in Washington says he is too active with some radical Chinese political movements. He is well acquainted with an Italian married woman, wife of an antiques dealer in East Harlem, and a tattooed lady in a museum on Fourteenth Street."

La Follette and Conqueror

After one of the heaviest votes ever cast in the State primaries, Governor Philip La Follette (left), of Wisconsin, champion of the Progressive faction, went down to defeat before former Governor Walter J. Kohler, Conservative, for the Republican nomination for Governor. Observers say that Kohler's victory is significant inasmuch as it is an indication that the La Follette dynasty, which has governed Wisconsin over a period of a quarter of a century, has fallen from power.

COURSE IN BUSINESS LAW TO BE OPENED HERE ON SEPT. 29

The course in business law which is to be offered by the Ohio State University in Circleville will begin on the evening of September 29th at the Circleville High School. The autumn quarter will be devoted to the study of Contracts; the winter quarter to Sales and Agency; the spring quarter to Negotiable Instruments.

Professor J. Wayne Ley will meet the classes each Thursday throughout the school year, beginning September 29th. Professor Ley, having practiced law for a number of years in Ohio, will develop his subject in the light of both common and statutory laws as interpreted by the federal and state courts.

MAKES STATEMENT

The first meeting, scheduled for September 29th is an organization meeting. At this time Professor Ley will give a complete statement in the development of the subject. At the conclusion of his statement an opportunity will be given for those desiring to participate in the weekly meetings to register for the course.

University officials announce that an exception has been made to the rule that applies to the collection of fees in this department. This amount will be collected on registration for one quarter in advance instead of two quarters as heretofore.

BUILDING LOAN EXECUTIVES WILL GATHER IN M'ARTHUR

The first step to bring back prosperity through a revival of the building construction industry will be taken by local building, loan and savings company executives Tuesday, Sept. 27th, when they go to McArthur to receive instructions regarding the operation of the home loan bank in the Ohio district, and to hear a discussion of present day building and loan problems by leaders in the building and loan movement.

In addition to local building and loan officers, representatives will be present from associations in Adams, Athens, Gallia, Highland, Hocking, Jackson, Lawrence, Meigs, Morgan, Pickaway, Pike, Ross, Scioto and Vinton counties.

The business session, which is to be held at the Methodist church, McArthur, will convene at noon with J. P. Rigney, Chillicothe, district president, presiding. Speakers will include Fred W. Arnold, Bellefontaine, president of the Ohio Building Association League; James A. Devine and Don L. Tobin, Columbus, nationally known building and loan authorities.

In the call for the meeting local loan officers were told that the wave of hysteria in the financial world was over, that numerous indices indicated that business was improving and that the building and loan associations might expect a resumption of deposits as labor returns to work.

Similar meetings are being held throughout various sections of the state, to the end that the billion dollars of resources in Ohio building and loan companies may be thrown into the battle now being waged to defeat the depression.

In addition to Mr. Rigney, other officers of the district are James Moore, Waverly, vice president, and W. C. Hazlebeck, Portsmouth, secretary.

Johnson Heads Department 6

Each day from now on until Pumpkin Show, Oct. 2, 6, 7, and 8, The Herald will endeavor to print a short article concerning one phase or another of the annual show. These articles are for the purpose of acquainting the general public with the big event and its operation.

This year's Pumpkin Show, as last, will have Lawrence J. Johnson in charge of Department No. 6 with Mrs. E. S. Stephens as chairman of the fancy work display assisted by Mrs. Frank Palm and Mrs. Robert Bates.

There are special prizes for fancy work done by girls between 12 and 15 years of age as well as for grownups.

The flower show of the annual event is for amateur growers only, so here is some easy money for persons who grow flowers. Dr. B. R. Bales is chairman of the displays assisted by George H. Dickard and W. Joseph Burns.

MRS. MARION IS HOSTESS AT BRIDGE

A quantity of roses and various colored fall flowers were artistically arranged throughout the home of Mrs. George Marion of the Lancaster-pk. Thursday, when she delightfully entertained sixteen of her friends at an evening bridge party.

Assembled for the pleasant affair were Misses Carrie Johnson, Ethel Stein, Katherine Weller, Anna and Estella Grimes, Mrs. S. G. Rader, Mrs. Alfred Lee, Mrs. Earl Hilyard, Mrs. T. P. Brown, Mrs. G. S. Corne, Mrs. Anna Ritt, Mrs. Clarence Wolf, Mrs. Carl Bennett, Mrs. Guy Rader, Mrs. Fred Nicholas and Mrs. G. H. Adkins.

Four tables of bridge progressed during the evening and lovely trophies for top score in the game were presented Mrs. Corne and Miss Weller.

The small tables were prettily appointed and centered with various colored tapers with a rainbow color scheme carried out, for the serving of refreshments at the conclusion of the delightful party.

LOGAN ELM GRANGE HAS INTERESTING MEETING

A very interesting meeting of the Logan Elm Grange, held Thursday evening in the Pick-away-two school, was attended by 55 members and five guests. Mr. and Mrs. Turney Glick, Mr. and Mrs. John Bolender and Miss Nellie Bolender of the Washington Grange.

This session was the annual inspection of the grange and was in charge of the county deputy, Turney Glick, as inspecting officer. It was voted by the grange to donate $10 to the Logan Elm rehabilitation fund.

Following the inspection ceremonies, refreshments were served at attractively decorated tables by the committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. E. C. Wilkins.

Mrs. Marvin Dreishach was in charge of the delightful program which followed.

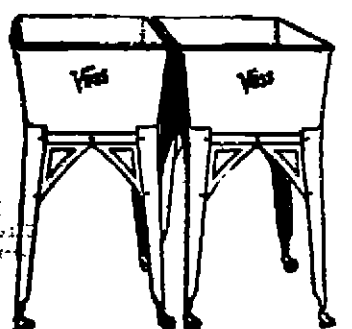

Two piano selections by Mrs. Lester Seitz opened the program. Her numbers were entitled "Fifth Nocturne" and "Napoleon Blast Charge."

G. D. Bradley gave a splendid talk on agriculture and a musical reading, "The Usual Way," given by Miss Hazel Wolford, was enjoyed.

"The Three B's" was an interesting talk by Prof. Lester Seitz. A playette entitled "Squaring It With the Boss" concluded the program. Characters included Misses Hazel Wolford, Harriett Young and Nona Shepler, and Roger Jury Lester Wolford and Neal Leist.

QUARTET ENTERTAINS WITH FINE PROGRAM

According to an account taken from the News-Herald at Hillsboro, of the meeting Tuesday of the Hillsboro Music Club, the program rendered at this session by the local Monday club quartette was highly entertaining and thoroughly appreciated by music lovers of that city.

The quartette composed of Miss Helen Marion, Mrs. Clark Will, Mrs. James Moffitt and Mrs. Evan Reichelderfer, was introduced by the founder of the Hillsboro club, Miss Grace Gardner. The account of the meeting in part, follows:

"The program was opened by the singing of a group of three songs by the quartette. These quartette arrangements were all from the German and included a song each by Strauss, Wagner and Schmidt. The 'attack' of the quartette was as one voice, their balancing of the parts perfect, their harmonizing something to delight the most sensitive ear.

This brilliant opening performance was roundly applauded and put the listeners in sympathetic mood for that which followed.

"Miss Helen Marion sang next a group of two songs by Hugo Wolf. Miss Marion has a beautifully placed voice of a range not often met with in singers not classed as high sopranos. Miss Marion sang with feeling and showed great reserves of power in her brilliant climax, 'Tis Spring'.

"Three songs, one English and two American ballads, were charmingly done by the quartette as the third number on the program. Musicians may recall that 'Rain' the first of the group, was sung here by the composer, Miss Curran on a chautauqua program a number of years ago. The last number of the group of three was a whimsical and brilliant fantasy, 'The Snow Storm' built up on a Mother Goose theme.

"The first soprano Mrs. Will sang a group of three ballads, each differing from the other in sentiment and subject, thus illustrating the wide range, flexibility and excellent training of the singer's talent. Mrs. Will's voice is beautifully colored and bell-like in quality. Her singing of 'The Fairy Pipers' last of her group of three, had a brilliant Irish lilt strongly suggestive of fairies, pixies and gnomes and was enthusiastically applauded.

"An interesting member of the quartette, Mrs. Moffitt, was the last soloist of the group. Mrs. Moffitt has found time to efficiently conduct a busy household consisting of a husband and four children as her vocation, while pursuing enthusiastically an avocation of music as her secondary interest. That she has succeeded in her first, her friends from Circleville attest and that she has made good in the second, all who heard her Tuesday can affirm.

"Mrs. Moffitt sang a song each from Brahms and Frantz giving them in the original, a medium splendidly suited to her fine physique and compelling personality. Her voice, rich, mature and beautifully trained together with her wholesome personality makes her the logical 'mother type' to interpret the vigorous works of the German composers. Much to the regret of her listeners Mrs. Moffitt did not respond to an encore.

"A brilliant climax to the program was the rendering of a group of two English ballads and one by

Plan Their Varsity Honeymoon

A honeymoon, spent in the study of calculus and other things that are taught at universities, is the plan of Thomas Ince, heir of the late motion picture magnate, and Nancy Drexel, movie actress, after their marriage on September 23. They plan to enter Antioch University, at Yellow Springs, where they will take courses they have chosen. They are shown as they talked things over in Hollywood.

the beloved American composer Stephen Collins Foster, whose "Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming" was beautifully interpreted by the quartette. In the singing of this last number the innate tenderness characterizing all of Foster's compositions was strikingly brought out. It is a song with melodiously harmonized parts carrying a lovely accompaniment for the soprano. It has been for years a favorite of quartettes because of its interesting possibilities, vocally, but all felt that it was perfectly done as to harmony, balance and understanding by those singing the various parts. Again the audience were disappointed that their enthusiastic applause failed to elicit an encore.

"Miss Abbe Clarke, finished pianist who accompanied the singers, delighted her hearers by the brilliance of her performance. Miss Clarke has done splendid work in her capacity of accompanist for the quartette and her associate artists are devoted to her."

"BIBLE CLASS TO HAVE PIE SALE
A pie sale will be given by the Westminster Bible Class of the Presbyterian church in Smith's meat market Saturday morning starting at 10 a. m."

In order to keep interest in this club something will be given to the children every Saturday.

BIG SHOW
On Saturday all children are requested to be in front of the Cliftona with a dog. Of course if you haven't a hound just go in the alley and find any kind of a hound. There will be three prizes given away for the winners. Two first prizes, one for the homeliest dog and one for the best looking dog. Other prizes for the dogs who can do various tricks.

BICYCLE TO BE GIVEN
On Oct. 25 a beautiful Shelby bicycle will be given away free to some lucky kiddie. The bicycle is now on display in the lobby of the theatre. It must be seen to appreciate the value of this prize.

It is not too late to join the Booster Club. If you did not receive your membership card all you have to do is to ask at the box office. There is no cost to join.

hand as it would appear 75 or 100 years ago.

A medicine case carried by Dr. John Vattier Courtwright and now the property of his grandson, Dr. D. V. Courtwright, is on hand. A powder horn and compass carried in the Revolutionary War by Major John Boggs is most interesting. A sword worn by Ebenezer Everts, great grandfather of Miss Lola Wentworth of W. Union-st, and an old sewing machine, probably of a Howe make used in 1844, and now the property of Mrs. Howard Noecker of north of Circleville, are two other historical relics.

The large room of the Bales building is filled with these historical articles of every kind. The loan exhibit was open Friday and will continue through Saturday.

"Henry's Wedding" Is Riot Of Jokes And Laughter

Complimentary terms were being showered upon the Circleville Athletic Club's comedy, "Henry's Wedding," Friday by the large audience which attended the first performance Thursday. The entire production, directed by Miss Barbara Kennedy of the Universal Producing Co., was declared to be one of the best home talent shows that Circleville has seen for a long while. It will again be presented tonight at the Grand theater, beginning at 8 o'clock.

The performance moved along smoothly and each member of the cast portrayed his or her part in the best manner in which it might be done.

WEDDINGS AND WEDDINGS
"Henry's Wedding" is a comedy of a bachelor bridegroom of 55 getting married for the first time to a widow of 49, who has been twice married. Joe Lynch as Uncle Henry and Miss Mildred Barthelmas as Samantha play their roles capably and furnish a number of laughs for the audience.

Jack (Charles Kirkpatrick), Uncle Henry's nephew, planned to get married on the day of the show and collect on the next day, his 25th birthday, $100,000 from his grandfather's will. The sudden announcement about Uncle Henry's wedding occurring as a part of a double event at Jack's wedding would cheat the latter out of the money that he expected. And then the excitement and fun began!

Jack immediately with his boy friends, Ted (John Heiskell) and Harris (John Styers) attempt to stop Uncle Henry's Wedding. An attempt to kidnap him brings on many comical situations and also brings to the stage, O'Flaherty (Dick Robinson), the hard-boiled detective and Mugs (Marion Senbrenner), his assistant, who are called in to solve the mystery. They also give plenty of laughs to the show.

COLORED PARTS GOOD
Eliza, the negro cook, (Mrs

George Himrod), and her lazy husband, Rastus, (Berlin Noble) provide much comedy. One of the noticeable events occurs when Uncle Henry, hiding in an ash can is the victim of a tremendous explosion and comes out as black as coal. He is mistaken for Rastus by Eliza and is forced to do all the housework.

With his uncle still missing, Jack decides to rush the wedding and then when he fails he decides to postpone the event and then his fiancée, Mary (Mary May Haswell) doesn't understand all of his peculiar actions. Things go from bad to worse and for a while it looks as though there will be no wedding, but during all this time a love affair develops between the old maid, Susan Christopher (Mrs. Gilbert Edgington), the jilted lover of Uncle Henry and the family attorney, Lawyer Brown (Gaylord Rose). They decided to be married and at the last minute join the happy circle and make it a tripple affair.

The play is a hilarious comedy from start to finish.

However the laugh hit of the show is the parade of the beaus and bells of grandma's time going to a 1940 wedding. Portrayed by a number of local business men these characters keep the audience in an uproar for nearly half an hour. These who take part include Ben Gordon, Harold White, Wayne Hoover, Frank Lynch, Joe Thomas, Sam Grant, Julius Gordon, D. L. Buchanan, Harry Weill, Dwight Steele, Lee Shaner, A. H. Rogers, Charles Owens, Ward Robinson, Harry Steinhauser, Gilbert Starkey, A. C. Cook and G. I. Nickerson.

Other members of the cast of characters are Ruth Stout, Eloise Hanley, Leo White, Reynold Greene, Mrs. Edwin Bach, E. C. Ebert, Gerald Hanley, George Himrod and Ross Kirkpatrick.

SINGING GOOD
There are a number of group settings, probably the most outstanding, the lodge meeting of the Colored Brethren and Sisters of the Mystic Shrine who attempt to find Uncle Henry by talking to the spirits. Those who take part in this group are Gerald Hanley, John Walters, Martha Reid, Ben Bales, Mrs. E. Bach, E. C. Ebert, Dwight Wilson, Joe Burns, Boyce Parks, DeVitt Bach, Joe Lynch, Mrs. Frank Kline, Berlin Noble, Sam Chambers, Constance Himrod, James Sampson, Ross Kirkpatrick, George Groom, Frank Howard, Katherine Mead, Mrs. D. L. Buchanan, Mrs. Will Fitzpatrick, George Himrod, Mrs. J. O. Eagle-son, Mrs. George Himrod and Mrs. E. R. Brooks.

Those included in the beautifully costumed choruses are Margaret Long, Ruth Dunkle, Marcella Allen, Margaret Butler, Mary Hall, Marjorie Brown, Katherine Brown, Doris Lindsay, Virginia Cady, Myrtle Good, Ethel Stonerock and Marie Peterson.

MRS. MARION IS HOSTESS AT BRIDGE

A quantity of roses and various colored fall flowers were artistically arranged throughout the home of Mrs. George Marion of the Lancaster-pk, Thursday, when she delightfully entertained sixteen of her friends at an evening bridge party.

Assembled for the pleasant affair were Misses Carrie Johnson, Ethel Stein, Katherine Weller, Anna and Estella Grimes, Mrs. S. G. Rader, Mrs. Alfred Lee, Mrs. Earl Hilyard, Mrs. T. P. Brown, Mrs. G. S. Corne, Mrs. Anna Ritt, Mrs. Clarence Wolf, Mrs. Carl Bennett, Mrs. Guy Rader, Mrs. Fred Nicholas and Mrs. G. H. Adkins.

Four tables of bridge progressed during the evening and lovely trophies for top score in the game were presented Mrs. Corne and Miss Weller.

The small tables were prettily appointed and centered with various colored tapers with a rainbow color scheme carried out, for the serving of refreshments at the conclusion of the delightful party.

LOGAN ELM GRANGE HAS INTERESTING MEETING

A very interesting meeting of the Logan Elm Grange, held Thursday evening in the Pick-away-two school, was attended by 55 members and five guests, Mr. and Mrs. Turney Glick, Mr. and Mrs. John Bolender and Miss Nellie Bolender of the Washington Grange.

This session was the annual inspection of the grange and was in charge of the county deputy, Turney Glick, as inspecting officer.

It was voted by the grange to donate $10 to the Logan Elm rehabilitation fund.

Following the inspection ceremonies, refreshments were served at attractively decorated tables by the committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. E. C. Wilkins.

Mrs. Marvin Dreisbach was in charge of the delightful program which followed.

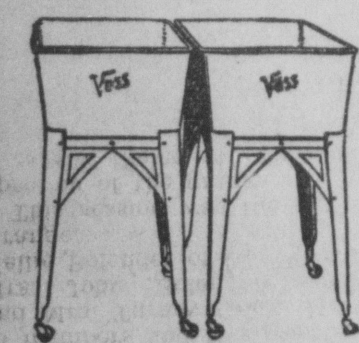

Two piano selections by Mrs. Lester Seitz opened the program. Her numbers were entitled "Fifth Nocturne" and "Napoleon Blast Charge."

G. D. Bradley gave a splendid talk on agriculture and a musical reading, "The Usual Way," given by Miss Hazel Wolford, was enjoyed.

"The Three B's" was an interesting talk by Prof. Lester Seitz. A playette entitled "Squaring It With the Boss" concluded the program. Characters included Misses Hazel Wolford, Harriett Young and Nona Shepler, and Roger Jury Lester Wolford and Neal Leist.

QUARTET ENTERTAINS WITH FINE PROGRAM

According to an account taken from the News-Herald at Hillsboro, of the meeting Tuesday of the Hillsboro Music Club, the program rendered at this session by the local Monday club quartette was highly entertaining and thoroughly appreciated by music lovers of that city.

The quartette composed of Miss Helen Marion, Mrs. Clark Will, Mrs. James Moffitt and Mrs. Evan Reichelderfer, was introduced by the founder of the Hillsboro club, Miss Grace Gardner. The account of the meeting in part follows:

"The program was opened by the singing of a group of three songs by the quartette. These quartette arrangements were all from the German and included a song each by Strauss, Wagner and Schmidt. The 'attack' of the quartette was as one voice, their balancing of the parts perfect, their harmonizing something to delight the most sensitive ear. This brilliant opening performance was roundly applauded and put the listeners in sympathetic mood for that which followed.

"Miss Helen Marion sang next a group of two songs by Hugo Wolf. Miss Marion has a beautifully placed voice of a range not often met with in singers not classed as high sopranos. Miss Marion sang with feeling and showed great reserves of power in her brilliant climax, 'The Spring.' "Three songs, one English and two American ballads, were charmingly done by the quartette as the third number on the program. Musicians may recall that 'Rain' the first of the group, was sung here by the composer, Miss Curran on a chautauqua program a number of years ago. The last number of the group of three was a whimsical and brilliant fantasy, 'The Snow Storm' built up on a Mother Goose theme.

"The first soprano Mrs. Will, sang a group of three ballads, each differing from the other in sentiment and subject, thus illustrating the wide range, flexibility and excellent training of the singer's talent. Mrs. Will's voice is beautifully colored and bell-like in quality. Her singing of 'The Fairy Pipers' last of her group of three, had a brilliant Irish lilt strongly suggestive of fairies, pixies and gnomes and was enthusiastically applauded.

"An interesting member of the quartette, Mrs. Moffitt, was the last soloist of the group. Mrs. Moffitt has found time to efficiently conduct a busy household consisting of a husband and four children as her vocation, while pursuing enthusiastically an avocation of music as her secondary interest. That she has succeeded in her first, her friends from Circleville attest and that she has made good in the second, all who heard her Tuesday can affirm.

"Mrs. Moffitt sang a song each from Brahms and Frantz giving them in the original, a medium splendidly suited to her fine physique and compelling personality. Her voice, rich, mature and beautifully trained together with her wholesome personality makes her the logical 'mother type' to interpret the vigorous works of the German composers. Much to the regret of her listeners Mrs. Moffitt did not respond to an encore.

"A brilliant climax to the program was the rendering of a group of two English ballads and one by

MRS. BATES IS CLUB HOSTESS

Mrs. Robert Bates entertained the members of her bridge club, Thursday evening, at her home on N. Court-st. Three tables of cards were in progress during the party and at its close favors went to Mrs. George Foerst and Mrs. Charles Carle.

In two weeks the club will meet with Mrs. Carle at her home on Watt-st.

SEPT. 19 MARRIAGE IS BEING ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Grice of Ashville are announcing the marriage of their only daughter, Miss Cleo M. Grice, to Mr. Boyd Hines, son of Mrs. E. E. Hines of Harrison-twp.

The ceremony was read by Rev. H. H. Glick at the Lockbourne Lutheran church at Lockbourne, Sept. 19 at 4 p. m.

Miss Elizabeth Cromley, a close friend of the bride, and Mr. Glenn Hines, brother of the groom, were the only attendants.

Following the ceremony a six o'clock dinner was served at the Village Inn in Columbus after which the couple left for a week's motor trip in the north.

They will be at home on Watkins-rd in Columbus, after Oct. 1.

MR. AND MRS. GRANT HAVE DINNER-BRIDGE

Charming in all its appointments was the dinner-bridge given Thursday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Harold O. Grant at their home on N. Court-st, which was artistically decorated with a profusion of fall flowers.

Covers were laid at small tables for sixteen guests including members of the hosts' bridge club and several guests, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. MacKinnon, Mr. and Mrs. Everet Lumpe, Miss Kathryn McLean of Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Snyder of Detroit, Mich.; and Miss Bess Fry and Tom Stocklen of this city. Dinner was served at the attractive tables at seven o'clock.

Bridge, the planned diversion, was in play at four tables and the guests passed a most enjoyable evening in friendly contesting. At its close honors in the game were awarded Mrs. Paul McGinnis and Dr. G. D. Phillips, club members, and guests prizes went to Miss McLean and Mr. Stocklen.
